

Hamburg-Spaldingstraße

From October 1944 to 17 April 1945, 2,000 men were imprisoned in a satellite camp in a tobacco warehouse at Spaldingstraße 156/158. The prisoners had to do clearance work after air raids, recover bodies, defuse bombs, repair railway track systems for the Reich's railway company and build a bunker on the River Alster.

Spaldingstraße in 1944

Building at the back of an office block in Hamburg-Hammerbrook. The building at Spaldingstraße 156/158, a former tobacco warehouse, had seven stories before it was bombed in 1944. It held up to 2,000 concentration camp prisoners.

Foto: unbekannt. (ANg)